From the project- The 7 Wonders of the World

The Hanging Gardens of Babylon

The Hanging Gardens of Babylon were one of the seven wonders of the ancient world, and the only one whose location has not been definitely established. Traditionally there was said to have been built in the ancient city of Babylon, near present day, Hillahi Babil province, in Iraq. The Babylonian priest Berossus, writing in about 290 BC. And quoted later by Josephus, attributed the gardens to the Neo Babylonian King Nebuchadnezzar II, who ruled between 605 and 562 BC. According to one legend, Nebuchadnezzar II built the Hanging Gardens for his Median wife, Queen Amytis, because she missed the green hills and valleys of her homeland. He also built a grand palace that came to be known as 'the Marvel of Mankind'.

The Mausoleum at Halicarnassus

The Mausoleum at Halicarnassus was a tomb built between 353 and 350 BC at Halicarnassus for Mausolus, a satrap in the Persian Empire. The structure was designed by the Greek architects Satyros and Pythias of Priene. The Mausoleum was approximately 45m. In height, and the four sides were adorned with sculptural reliefs, each created by one of four Greek sculptors. The finished structure of the Mausoleum was considered to be such an aesthetic triumph that Antipates of Sidon identified it as one of the seven wonders of the Ancient World. It was destroyed by successive earthquakes from the 12th to the 15th century.

The Temple of Artemis

Or Artemision also known less precisely as the Temple of Diana, was a Greek temple dedicated to the goddess Artemis and is one of the seven wonders of the world. It was located in Ephesus and was completely rebuilt three times before its eventual destruction in 401 BC. The first sanctuary antedated the Ionic immigration by many years, and dates to the Bronze age. Callimachus in his hymn to Artemis, attributed it to the Amazons. In the seventh century BC, the old temple was destroyed by a flood. Its reconstruction begun around 550 BC , under the Cretan architect Chersiphron and his son Metagenes, at the expense of Croesus of Lydia- the project took 10 years to complete, only to be destroyed in an act of arson by Herostratus. It was later rebuilt..
